INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Complete this entire form.
   NOTE: The term ‘Owner’ used in this form will generally refer to the property owner or complainant, and the term ‘Person’ will refer to the person who completed the written agreement for the property.

2. Use one form per separate written agreement, even when it is the same person.

3. Attach copies of supporting documentation. Keep and secure all original documents, you may need them for trial.
The first four items in the following checklist contain required documentation. Without these documents, criminal prosecution is highly unlikely.

   Check the box and number of pages if attached:

   ( ) Copy of complete written agreement.
   Contains ______ pages.

   ( ) Copy of photo identification the person used (driver’s license, ID card, etc).
   Contains ______ pages.

   ( ) Copy of demand letter and envelope or other record of certified or registered mail.
   Contains ______ pages.

   ( ) Property Information Form (attached VPD form).
   Contains ______ pages.

   List and attached documents and any items that could assist the investigation (ie: contact logs, video, etc)

   ( ) __________________________________________________________.
   Contains ______ pages.

   ( ) __________________________________________________________.
   Contains ______ pages.

   ( ) __________________________________________________________.
   Contains ______ pages.

4. Determine the replacement value of the property.

   RCW 9A.56.010(18)(a) states that “Value” means the market value of the property at the time and in the approximate area of the criminal act. The time of the criminal act means at the time they stole the property. For example, if the property were rented for several months and then the renter quit paying and left with the property, the value is based on the used value of the property at the time the person quit paying and stole it.

   To determine value on new items use regular retail prices for new items as if the items were bought from a normal retail sales outlet. If your company has higher than typical retail sales prices, the typical prices in other stores will control. For used property, you should consider prices of similar used items sold in the local area, such as at second hand dealers, newspaper classified ads, or local internet sales to determine the value.

   In most cases the time of the criminal act will be considered as the failure of the person to make acceptable arrangements for the return of the property within 72 hours after being served with proper notice to do so following the due date of the written agreement
5. Agree to prosecute.

This complaint may result in criminal charges. By filing a complaint and requesting investigation by law enforcement, you are agreeing to cooperate with the criminal prosecution of the case if criminal charges are filed. As a condition of seeking law enforcement assistance in this matter, if charges are filed, you must agree to assist with any prosecution and should not agree to a civil compromise or other agreement to dismiss the charges in exchange for payment or the return of the property.

If you believe that collection is preferable to prosecution, and wish to pursue those options, civil remedies (collection agencies, small claims court, etc) are a more appropriate choice than a request for criminal investigation and prosecution.
