Vancouver arts hub

The Vancouver arts hub will give new life to the former Vancouver community library on Mill Plain as a vibrant art center that serves the entire community. With an emphasis on a broad range of visual and digital arts, the arts hub will be a gathering place where people can create and learn together.

As the City of Vancouver becomes of the steward of the former library building, there is an unprecedented opportunity to create this arts hub in a space that is already important to the community. Large, flexible and eye-catching, the building and site are well-suited to a wide variety of activities and events. Located near educational resources, the Historic Reserve and the Downtown Arts District, there are many opportunities for partnerships and for an arts ecosystem to flourish.

The Vancouver Culture, Arts & Heritage Commission is working with City staff to create a concept plan for the building, and researching sustainable options for managing, operating and financing the Vancouver arts hub.

A wide range of perspectives and ideas are needed to help shape the future of the Vancouver arts hub. Take the survey and subscribe to this project to receive updates about this project!
