Pet Spotlight: Bleu

Meet Bleu, a California native, who has found his home in Central Park. His close friends and family lovingly refer to him as “old man”. You may recognize his bark if you’ve walked by his house before. You can’t blame him for being a watch dog, rumor has it that he was a sentry guard in another life. Despite barking at strangers, he actually loves getting to meet new friends, but be warned - he has been known to steal other dogs’ toys. He looks forward to meeting more neighbors soon!
